

Highlights

- Prior ECGs not useful for predicting major adverse cardiac events using ML
- Findings consistent across multiple model types and subpopulations
- Results contradict prior research and recommended clinical practice